

Federation Welcomes 'My Police' Website

11.03.10

Responding to the launch of the HMIC 'My Police' website, Simon Reed, Vice-Chairman of the Police Federation of England and Wales, says:

“The police are accountable to the public and it is therefore right that the public should be able to scrutinise and hold their local force to account. To that end, we welcome the introduction of the HMIC 'My Police' website which will allow the public to see the broad performance of their force, how money is spent on local policing and engage with their force regarding priorities should they wish to do so. “