INTRODUCTION

This report provides a summary of responses to the PFEW National Detectives Survey received from respondents in West Midlands Police in 2017.

Some of the questions asked in this year's survey were the same as in the 2015 National Detectives Survey; this allowed us to monitor any changes since the last time the survey was conducted. Other questions were new to 2017, to be able to look in more detail at the context in which detectives are currently working.

Where appropriate, details of average responses for the police service as a whole are also presented, differences between the national and local responses have not been tested statistically and therefore any differences reported are for guidance only and must be treated with caution.

RESPONSE RATE AND RESPONDENTS

The National Detectives Survey 2017 opened on 1st September 2017 and closed on 24th September 2017. During this time, detective officers were invited to attend via the Police Federation's National Membership Database, as well as via local Joint Branch Boards and the National Detectives Forum mailing list.

250 responses were received from detectives in West Midlands Police. There is still no accepted measure of the total number of detectives in England and Wales. It is therefore not possible to calculate a definitive response rate for the survey as a proportion of the total number of detectives. However, for comparison the number of responses received within West Midlands Police was higher than when this survey was last conducted in 2015, when 198 responses were received.

IMPACT OF SERVICE CUTS

58% of respondents within West Midlands Police said that service cuts have had a major impact on their morale; this was higher than the national average, where 56% detectives said that service cuts have had a major impact upon their morale.

In addition, 30% of respondents within West Midlands Police said service cuts have had a major impact upon their physical health and wellbeing, whilst 26% said that service cuts have had a major impact upon their mental health and wellbeing. For comparison, in England and Wales as whole 27% of detectives said that service cuts have had a major impact on their physical health and wellbeing and also on their mental health and wellbeing.

How, if at all, have service cuts affected...	No impact	Minor impact	Moderate impact	Major impact
Your morale	3%	9%	30%	58%
Your physical health and wellbeing	13%	22%	35%	30%
Your mental health and wellbeing	14%	23%	36%	26%

63% of respondents in West Midlands Police said that service cuts have substantially increased their overall workload; 52% said that service cuts have substantially increased how fatigued they feel; and 43% said that service cuts have substantially increased how stressful they find their jobs. Comparison of these proportions in West Midlands Police to England and Wales as a whole can be found in the table below.

	West Midlands Police	England and Wales
Your overall workload	63% substantially increased (31% slightly increased)	62% substantially increased (32% slightly increased)
How fatigued you feel	52% substantially increased (36% slightly increased)	53% substantially increased (38% slightly increased)
How stressful you find your job	43% substantially increased (44% slightly increased)	49% substantially increased (41% slightly increased)

WORKLOAD AND JOB DEMANDS

75% of respondents in West Midlands Police said that their workload in the last 12 months was either too high or much too high. This is lower than the national average - in England and Wales as a whole, 76% of respondents said that their workload had been too high or much too high in the last 12 months.

21% of respondents in West Midlands Police said that their workload enabled them to provide the service needed to victims either most or all of the time; this compares to 27% of detectives in England and Wales as a whole. The proportion of respondents in West Midlands Police who said that their workload enabled them to provide the service needed to victims either most or all of the time has decreased since 2015 when 25% of respondents felt that they could provide the service needed either most or all of the time.

In addition, 16% of respondents in West Midlands Police said that their workload enabled them to provide the service needed to witnesses either most or all of the time, in comparison to 22% of detectives in England and Wales overall. The proportion of respondents in West Midlands Police who said that their workload enabled them to provide the service needed to witnesses either most or all of the time has decreased since 2015, when 28% of respondents felt that they could provide the service needed either most or all of the time.

Does your workload enable you to provide the service needed to...?	Never	Sometimes	Most or all of the time
Victims	17%	63%	21%
Witnesses	19%	65%	16%

JOB RELATED STRESS

In West Midlands Police, 42% of respondents said that they felt emotionally drained from work either most or all of the time. Nationally, this proportion was 48%. The proportion of respondents in West Midlands Police who said that they had felt emotionally drained from work either most or all of the time has increased since 2015, when 35% of respondents said that they felt emotionally drained from work.

42% of respondents in West Midlands Police said that their job was either very or extremely stressful. This is the proportion of respondents who, in effect, report a non-diagnostic case of work-related stress within West Midlands Police.

In England and Wales as a whole 48% of detectives reported a case of work-related stress.
