INTRODUCTION
The PFEW Pay and Morale Survey obtains federated rank members’ views on their pay and conditions, as well as their attitudes to their work and the police service in general. The Pay and Morale survey is one of the largest annual surveys of police officers conducted within England and Wales and has been conducted each year since 2014.

This report provides a summary of responses to the PFEW Pay and Morale Survey received from respondents within Humberside Police in 2020. Where appropriate, details of overall responses for the police service as a whole are also presented.

RESPONSE RATE AND RESPONDENTS
346 responses were received from Humberside Police, representing a response rate of around 18% (based on July 2020 Home Office figures of officer headcount). The national response rate for the 2020 survey was approximately 20% of all federated rank officers in England and Wales. Last year’s response rate for Humberside Police was 36%. Please bear this in mind when making comparisons with last year’s findings.

REPRESENTATIVENESS
In order to calculate whether the sample size is representative, it is necessary to take the population size into account, along with the margin of error and the confidence level. In essence, the margin of error measures the maximum amount by which the results from the sample are expected to differ from those of the actual population and is calculated using the sample size (the number of responses from federated rank officers in Humberside Police), the population size (the total number of federated rank officers in Humberside Police) and the confidence level.

The smaller the margin of error, the more confident we can be that the results are representative of the overall sample. For example: If 60% of respondents answered ‘Yes’ to one of the survey questions and the margin of error is 5%, we can estimate that 55% - 65% of the whole population would answer the same if asked.

If the margin of error is less than 5%, it can be considered to be within the normal bounds of academic rigour. The margin of error for this report has been calculated, and at a 95% confidence level, this report has a margin of error of 5%.

1 Data were weighted at a national level on the basis of respondents’ force to ensure that each force were proportionally represented within the national sample; no weightings were applied at a force level. More information about weightings can be found in the 2020 Technical Annex R076/2020.
Overall in England and Wales, 1102 survey respondents declined to state which force they belonged to. The responses from these officers have been included within the national data but are excluded from force-level analysis.

68% of responses from Humberside Police were received from male officers and 32% of responses were from female officers. 73% of respondents were Constables, 18% were Sergeants, 8% were Inspectors and 1% were Chief Inspectors.
CURRENT EVENTS

THE COVID-19 CRISIS
Overall, 53% of respondents from Humberside Police said that their force has managed officers well during the COVID-19 crisis. This is higher than the proportion of respondents in the country as a whole where 49% said that their force has managed officers well during the COVID-19 crisis.

To what extent do you agree or disagree that your force has managed officers well during the COVID-19 crisis?

Nationally, 78% of respondents said that their force had kept them up to date on COVID-19 related guidance. 74% of respondents from Humberside Police said that their force had kept them up to date on COVID-19 related guidance.

41% of respondents from Humberside Police told us that they have received adequate training on the COVID-19 crisis from their force. In the service as a whole, 41% of respondents said that they have received adequate training on the COVID-19 crisis from their force.
In the service as a whole, 48% of respondents said that they have had access to adequate PPE compared to 61% of respondents from Humberside Police told us that they have had access to adequate PPE when necessary during the COVID-19 crisis.

25% of respondents from Humberside Police said that they have had access to antigen testing via their force. Nationally, 31% of respondents said that they had access to antigen testing via their force.

In the service as a whole, 14% of respondents said that they have had access to antibody testing. In Humberside Police 6% of respondents said that they have had access to antibody testing via their force.

2 Antigen testing is used to detect whether an individual currently has COVID-19.

3 Antibody testing is used to detect whether an individual has previously had COVID-19.

4 When interpreting these results, it should be noted that only some officers from certain forces were able to access antibody testing due to participation in otherwise unrelated research, such as the Airwave study.
THE 20,000 OFFICER UPLIFT

44% of respondents from Humberside Police felt that their force will be able to recruit the number of officers they have been allocated for the uplift. This is more than the 33% of respondents nationally who felt that their force will be able to recruit the number of officers they have been allocated for the uplift.

20% of respondents from Humberside Police felt that their force will have enough Sergeants/Line Managers to supervise all of the new officers it recruits. Overall, 16% of respondents nationally told us that their force will have enough Sergeants/Line Managers to supervise new officers; 45% of respondents felt that their force will not have enough Sergeants/Line Managers to supervise new officers.

Nationally, 7% of respondents told us that their force will have enough Tutor Constables and 62% of respondents felt that their force will not have enough Tutor Constables to train all the new officers it recruits. In Humberside Police, 7% of respondents told us that their force will have enough Tutor Constables to train all the new officers it recruits.
PAY AND REMUNERATION

COST OF LIVING

NOTE FOR BRANCH BOARDS

Additional findings from the 2020 Pay and Morale survey are available on request from the Research and Policy department. Additional topics include, but are not limited to:

- Reasons for not applying for promotion
- Satisfaction with training and development
- Engagement (including pride in the police)
- Perceptions of fair pay (e.g. in relation to the hazards or stresses on the job)

The findings of the survey can also be broken down in more detail in terms of different demographic groups, such as rank, role or length of service. However please be aware that we can only go into a certain level of detail with this demographic data in order to preserve respondents’ confidentiality.

Branch Boards wishing to obtain further information in a certain area can contact ResearchandDataCollection@polfed.org to discuss their requirements. The Research and Policy Department only has one member of staff responsible for these data requests therefore please bear this in mind in terms of turnaround times and the amount of data you request.

All other interested parties should speak to their local Police Federation Branch Board in the first instance.
