Notes for Guidance. (These notes are not part of the Order)

1. Any information permitted to be displayed under regulation 109(1)(i) of the Road Vehicle (Construction and Use) Regulations 1986, as modified by article 5 of this Order, should not be visible to the driver of a vehicle whilst it is in motion, and systems are expected to be designed to cut out such displays as soon as they detect that the vehicle is in motion.

The speed allowance of 7mph is included in the modified regulation to allow for detection delays and limitations in equipment sensitivity, regardless of whether vehicle motion is detected by satellite positioning or vehicle sensors.

2. Whereas this Vehicle Special Order modifies regulation 109(1) to allow operationally necessary policing information to be visible by drivers, it is not intended to allow communication by text beyond that which is ancillary to the operation of onboard systems. Text communication and text data records give rise to an unacceptable risk of driver distraction and may not be visible to the driver whilst the vehicle is in motion as per regulation 109(1)(i), as modified by this Order.
